Bryan-College Station Title Industry Professional Honored by Statewide Trade Association

June 27, 2022

AUSTIN – The Texas Land Title Association (TLTA), one of the state’s oldest trade associations, recently named Celia Goode-Haddock an Honorary Member for Sustained Meritorious Service. The award was presented during TLTA’s Annual Conference and Business Meeting in Fort Worth. This prestigious honor is awarded rarely and is reserved for industry leaders who have provided exemplary service to both the association and the title industry over many years.

“Throughout her entire career from start to finish, Celia was an incredibly active TLTA volunteer leader, giving of herself to support the industry she loved,” said Leslie Midgley, Executive Vice President and CEO of TLTA. “She was involved in the first land title schools in the late 1970s, and she served on or chaired nearly every TLTA committee and most of the association’s task forces. She served three separate times on TLTA’s Board of Directors and for almost 20 years on the PAC board of trustees. However, her greatest TLTA legacy may be chairing the committee that developed the first Leadership Academy in 2012. We are so very grateful for her many contributions and tireless service to the title insurance industry over many years.”

This is not the first time Goode-Haddock’s work was recognized by her industry peers. She was named Outstanding Young Title Person in 1998 and Title Person of the Year in 2012.

Celia started her career in the family title business after she graduated from Texas A&M University in 1972. In 1983, she and her partners purchased University Title Company from her father, and she became president of that company. She retired a few years ago.

While she was growing a successful company, raising a family, and giving countless hours to TLTA, she was also giving to her community. She
