Title Industry Veteran Receives Prestigious Award from Statewide Trade Association

AUSTIN –The Texas Land Title Association (TLTA), one of the state’s oldest trade associations, recently named Lloyd Draper, Senior Vice President of Southwest Agency Operations for WFG National Title Insurance Company, an honorary member for sustained meritorious service. The honor was presented during the association’s Annual Conference and Business Meeting in Austin on June 20. The designation is in recognition of Draper’s many contributions to the association and the title industry over a long period of time.

“By always advocating the path in the best interest of the entire industry, through hard work and compromise, Lloyd has worked tirelessly for this association,” said Leslie Midgley, Executive Vice President of TLTA. “It is fitting to honor a man who has been such an integral part of our success over the years.”

Draper has more than 36 years of experience in the title industry, and during that entire time, has been actively involved as a volunteer leader with TLTA. Draper was named an outstanding Young Title Person in 1981, and just 10 years later, he served as TLTA President in 1990-91. In 1993, he was honored with the Title Man of the Year Award, and has served on virtually every TLTA committee over the years.

Draper has served in his current role at WFG National Title Insurance Company since 2010. Prior to that, he served as Southwest Regional Manager for Land America Financial Group and Commonwealth Land Title Insurance Company.
